

AGED MAN SECOND VICTIM IN AUTO CRASH IN WEEK

Open Verdict in Death of Mrs. Salzman
GRAY DESCRIBES DEATH OF SNYDER

AUTO DRIVER PROSTRATED WITH GRIEF

Miss Hazel Wilkins Unable to Attend Inquest Wednesday

The coroner's jury investigating the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Salzman yesterday afternoon, after hearing the testimony of a number of eye witnesses, returned an open verdict finding death was due to injuries sustained by being struck by an automobile.

Driver Grief Stricken
Miss Hazel Wilkins who was at the wheel of the car Sunday morning when the accident occurred was unable to be present at the inquest because of the deep grief and shock of the accident.

Mr. Rippeon stated that Miss Wilkins had driven the car several blocks Sunday morning and that she was an experienced driver, having driven this car upon several occasions. Going south on Third street, the car was in low gear throughout the accident.

Couldn't Move Wheel
The car started for the curb and as it did so, it reached for both the steering wheel and the emergency brake. Mr. Rippeon stated, "Miss Wilkins appeared to have a death grip on the steering wheel and I could not move it. I applied the emergency brake, but the car had too much power and continued between the trees and then I saw Mr. and Mrs. Salzman. I believe that Miss Wilkins held her foot on the accelerator instead of the brake or clutch and kept pressing it down. It all happened in a flash of time. When the car stopped, I jumped out and went back to where Mrs. Salzman lay and helped to remove her to her home. I remained until the physician arrived. Miss Wilkins had fainted in the meantime and I then went home to see about her condition. I drove the car Saturday night and it appeared to be in good condition in every way. The brakes were working and there was no trouble with the steering gear."

M. H. Heinz, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brice, Mrs. Richard Pomeroy, Miss Lella Hinde, Miss Hazel Van Ribber, Harry Williams and W. B. Adams, witnesses to all or part of the fatal accident related their versions. Several of the witnesses saw it from a distance and could give very little information. M. H. Heinz and Mr. and Mrs. Brice testified to about the same version of the unfortunate affair.

They were standing on the porch of the Brice residence, and saw the car make the turn at the corner of College avenue and Third street. The car was not under control when it turned, but headed into the curb, it appeared to gain momentum and jumped on the walk. Mr. and Mrs. Salzman, on their way to church, were walking eastward, and the car was headed directly at them. Mr. Salzman made one step as the machine leaped and hit him and struck Mrs. Salzman, who was also making an effort to get away from the car by stepping into a yard, but was caught between the machine and a tree, sustaining the injuries which resulted in her death. The car, after striking the aged

GASOLINE TAX BILL STARTED SENATE FIGHT

Unfairness on Part of Highway Committee Charged Today

Springfield, Ill., May 5.—(AP)—The Senate committee on highways today reported out the gasoline tax bill with a recommendation that it pass.

A fight started almost immediately. Senator Courtney, democrat, Chicago, moved that it be sent back to committee for further consideration. He attacked Senator Taft, chairman of the highways committee, charged him with unfairness and said that members of the committee were not notified that the meeting was to be held.

On a motion by Senator Barr, Joliet, Senator Courtney's motion was tabled. The vote was 23-20.

"You could at least be fair to members of this body who are opposed to the 'gas' tax," Courtney shouted. "Ninety-nine percent of the people of Chicago are against it. They are entitled to fairness and your committee took undue advantage of us. I demand that you give us your roll call on the bill."

RE-ENACTED STRUGGLE ON VICTIM'S BED

Unruly Crowd Listened to Exposition of Cold Murder

New York, May 5.—(AP)—Henry Judd Gray rose on the witness stand today and demonstrated how he had wielded the sash weight with which he beat Albert Snyder over the head.

This was in the first minutes of his cross examination by counsel for his co-defendant, Mrs. Ruth Snyder. The crowd was so unruly that opening of court was delayed ten minutes. After Snyder was killed, Gray said he put on one of his shirts which Mrs. Snyder gave him and they then went downstairs and sat in the living room.

Gray told of burning bloodstained clothing and of hiding the sash weight.

"Then we went upstairs," he said. "She asked me to help her twist wire around his neck. I tried, but I was so shaky and so intoxicated that I couldn't. I started mashing things up to make it seem there had been a burglary. She asked me if I would hit her over the head but I would not. I did tie her up however, and took two drinks and then left for Syracuse. I tried to read or sleep on the train and could not."

Gray said he threw from the train a brief case containing poisons Mrs. Snyder gave him. "I was very dazed when I got to Syracuse," he said. "I went directly to my room. Then he told how on the previous day he arranged with Haddon Gray to masquerade and mail some letters as an alibi."

After he got back to Syracuse, Gray said he found a note in his room saying something like "Perfect. Call when ready."

The note was then identified. When he saw Haddon, who came with another maid of being taken to the station, his eyes misted.

"In the train, he said, suddenly I began to weep, they told me I'd better come across, that there were ways to make me talk if they had to be used. Finally I was so confused I told them the whole story or not."

He said he was taken to the Queens county district attorney's office where he was told to tell his story. This was Monday and he said he had had no sleep since Friday night.

Gray's confession was produced and he read it, omitting such parts as he asserted were untrue. He omitted little and that had to do with details of no importance. As he came to the actual killing, he began to cry again. Mrs. Snyder listened calmly.

The direct examination of Gray was concluded this morning. Dana Wallace, counsel for Mrs. Snyder, began cross-examination and jumped to the heart of the murder.

"You say you had your glasses off at the time?"

"Yes. They were taken off, he added, in case there should be a fight. I think."

"Show us how you struck those blows."

MELLON'S LETTER ON DEBTS CALLED PURELY DOMESTIC

Britain's Request for an Explanation Meets Little Favor

London, May 5.—(AP)—A Downing Street official told The Associated Press today, that Great Britain's war debts note to the United States was aimed primarily at her continental neighbors, and was designed to remove "false impressions" created on the continent by Secretary Mellon's letter to President Hibben of Princeton University.

The British government, the official said, had no criticism to make of the brief reply to the note issued by Secretary Kellogg.

Great Britain had no desire to enter an American domestic controversy over the war debts question, it is stated here, but the issue was forced by what is still maintained in government circles to be Secretary Mellon's "misrepresentations."

Washington, May 5.—(AP)—Great Britain has sought an official statement from the United States arising from Secretary Mellon's letter to President Hibben of Princeton University regarding the British war debt, but Secretary Kellogg has replied that the discussion was purely domestic and that for diplomatic exchanges is entertained.

To the opinion expressed in the British note, however, that Mr. Mellon's letter was in some instances inaccurate and that some declaration seemed advisable to remove the unfortunate impression that has been created, Secretary Mellon countered with a statement devoted to defense of his Hibben communication and a reiteration that cancellation of war debts would place an unjust burden upon the American people.

The British note complained against what it termed the misleading impression given by Mr. Mellon, that Great Britain's debt payments to the United States will not constitute a drain on England's economic resources and that she is receiving in reparations from other nations more than her payments to the American treasury.

A chief point of disagreement was a statement by Mr. Mellon in his Hibben letter that all our principal debtors are receiving from Germany more than enough to pay their debts to the United States. This, the British government denied as its own circumstance, and Mr. Mellon, in his statement, admits that through a typographical error the words "except Great Britain" were inadvertently omitted.

he said, and the spectators laughed. The question went unanswered.

"Do you mean to say," Wallace shouted, "that you did not tie the wire about Albert Snyder's neck?"

"I did not tie that wire," Gray replied.

"Did you touch the body?"

"Yes. She wanted to know if he was dead. I touched his hand and it was cold. I told her I thought he was dead. She was standing beside me."

"You had had possession of the wire?"

COUNTY'S QUOTA FOR RELIEF OF FLOOD VICTIMS ONLY ONE FOURTH CONTRIBUTED TODAY

FLOOD ENDANGERS 50,000 MORE RESIDENTS OF SOUTH

New Orleans, May 5.—(AP)—Fifty thousand persons were threatened today with the wrath of the Mississippi and its tributaries, spewing swirling water from torn levees and backing over lowlands to form an ever-growing lake which left showing only the tops of trees.

More than twelve thousand inhabitants were being driven from Tensas parish, St. Joseph, Waterproof and Newellton were being deserted as were dozens of smaller communities in the path of torrents streaming through a breach in the levee at Winter Quarters.

Virtually all of Concordia parish already had been given over to the backwaters of the Red and Old rivers. Twelve thousand residents were affected by the flood there. Other neighboring parishes also were feeling the effect of water.

A man was reported drowned near Winn Island where 24 persons were marooned upon high ground.

Other Levees Weakening
Another ominous threat impending with various reports of other levees weakening along the Mississippi. Meanwhile as the largest rescue fleet ever assembled on the river, was at work medical forces and bread lines of the greatest relief machine in the country's history maneuvered into position to care for the swelling ranks of homeless refugees.

Huge supplies of medical aids, including disease anti-toxins, food, clothing and tents were sent to concentration centers. Some apprehension was expressed by medical men because of scattering of typhoid fever and smallpox. An epidemic of dysentery among new refugees at Arkansas City caused Red Cross authorities concern.

"Channel Swim" is Growing in Spirit

The interest in the channel swim is growing as swimmers near the finish. Harry Gleason of the Senior group has completed sixteen of his required twenty-two and one-half miles. The Intermediate group, Emmerson Carlson has a little over four miles to go to reach the fifteen mile channel. Ray Riddlebauer has six and one-half miles to his credit, while John Burke and Harry Lennon each has finished five miles.

Harold Snow of the Juniors is ahead of Kenneth Simenson and Ray Kline now by one hundred thirty feet. All of these boys have less than three miles to go. Oliver Gerdes, who has just recovered from a broken arm, is gaining rapidly on the above trio, and has nearly six and one-half miles completed.

The boys are looking with rather assured anticipation at the case in which the medals are kept, while the Physical Director is looking anxiously at the chart to see how many medals to order.

P. B. UNANGST FATALITY HURT WED. EVENING

Stepped in Front Ford Coupe on Peoria Ave. Last Eve.

Perry Boon Unangst, who has conducted a second hand store on Peoria avenue, between First and Second streets, was the victim of Dixon's second fatal automobile accident of the week, when he received mortal injuries at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening when he stepped from the curb directly in front of a Ford coupe, driven by Maurice Spangler, 605 Hennepin avenue.

According to eye witnesses Unangst had left his place of business to cross to the east side of the street and stepped off the curb on the west side of the thoroughfare between parked cars, directly in front of the Spangler machine, which was being driven south on Peoria avenue.

The aged man was knocked down, his head striking the pavement with such force as to cause a fracture at the base of the skull. He was otherwise bruised about the body. He was hurried to the Dixon public hospital where he succumbed at 3 o'clock this morning without having regained consciousness.

Coroner Frank M. Banker conducted an inquest over the remains at the Staples-Moyer mortuary at 10:30 this morning. The jury returning a verdict finding that death was due to the fracture at the base of the skull sustained in the accident.

Maurice Spangler, driver of the car, stated that he was driving at a speed of ten miles an hour when Mr. Unangst stepped out from between two cars parked on the west side of the street, directly in front of his car. The driver brought his car to a stop within its length, but the front of the radiator struck the aged man, knocking him down. Merchant Police Officer Peter C. Kelly was very close to the scene of the accident and saw the aged merchant as he stepped off the curb and assisted in removing him to the hospital.

Bert Unangst of this city, a son of the deceased, testified that his father had suffered two strokes of paralysis within the past four years and that his eyesight was very poor.

OLD MASTERS

BEFORE IT IS TOO LATE
If you have a gray-haired mother
in the old home far away,
St. down and write the letter
You put off from day to day.
Don't wait until her weary steps
Reach Heaven's pearly gate,
But show her that you think of her,
Before it is too late.

The tender love unspoken,
The letters never sent,
The long forgotten messages,
The wealth of love unspent;
For these some hearts are breaking,
For these some loved ones wait;
Show them that you care for them
Before it is too late.

Menus for the Family

BY SISTER MARY
BREAKFAST—Steamed figs with sliced lemon, cereal, cream, creamed dried beef with toast cubes, crisp graham toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Stuffed eggs in tomato sauce, hearts of lettuce with French dressing, graham bread, quick cake with maple frosting, milk,
tea.

DINNER—Broiled salmon steaks,
battered potatoes, dandelion greens, stuffed celery, rhubarb betty with hard sauce, rye bread, milk, coffee.

Quick Cake
One whole egg, 2 yolks eggs, 7-8
cup granulated sugar, 1 1/2 cup butter, 2 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup milk.

Save whites of two eggs for frosting. Put egg and yolks into mixing bowl and beat until very light. Beat in sugar, continuing to use egg beater. Gradually beat in milk and butter which has been melted. Beat very hard with egg beater. Remove beater and add finely mixed and sifted vanilla and beat the mixture until perfectly smooth using a wooden spoon. Turn into an oiled and floured dripping pan and bake 30 minutes in a moderately hot oven.

Let cool slightly and cover with maple frosting.

Maple Frosting
Whites 2 eggs, 1-1/4 cups maple syrup.

Put syrup in good sized sauce pan and bring to the boiling point. Put egg whites in a bowl and beat with a dover beater until stiff. Add 4 tablespoonfuls syrup, beating each tablespoonful thoroughly into whites.
Let syrup cook until it holds its shape when tried in cold water but is too soft to pick up with fingers.

Gradually add about one-third of the hot syrup, beating hard. Let syrup cook until a firm ball is formed when a few drops are tried in cold water and slowly add to frosting beating hard. Beat until frosting is cool and spread on cake. This makes a thick frosting that does not "cake" and dry out. You will soon tell by the "feel" of the frosting while beating the right time for cooking the syrup.

Mother Rules Campus Over Week End

Champaign, Ill., May 5—(AP)— Mother will rule the University of Illinois campus this week end.

Like Dad's Day, which had grown into a three-day visit during the fall, Mother's Day is a similar event for the spring. Coming usually at the celebration of Mother's Day, the sons and daughters attending the University have mother down for Friday, Saturday and as much of Sunday as possible.
Special rates are granted by railroads.

And so, starting tomorrow morning trains, and the highways from all sections of the state, will be crowded with the visitors. A total of 2,000 visiting mothers is expected.

The first event in the honor of the visitors will be a student play, "The Romantic Young Lady," staged by Mask and Bauble, a student dramatic organization.

Saturday morning there will be the annual meeting of the Mothers Association. Like the Dads Association, this is state-wide and mothers of all students are eligible to membership.
The organization is interested in the welfare of the University and in students' problems generally. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected at this meeting.

Saturday at 1 o'clock there will be a carnival in the swimming tank in the women's building. The climax of the entertainment comes at 4 o'clock when the annual May fete, an institution many years old at the University, will be held. Some 600 women will participate. This occurs at the studium.

Saturday evening and Sunday there will be dinner parties and other social affairs honoring Mother while all of the churches in the student district will have special Mother Day services.

are thirty singers in the choir and they have given excellent satisfaction in every city in which they have ap-

THE REAL CRIMINAL.

Francesco Caruso, uneducated Brooklyn laborer, has been found guilty of first degree murder and will, unless some higher court intervenes, die in the electric chair.

Caruso killed Dr. Casper S. Pendola. He admitted it; told the jury how he had done it. Yet the real culprit in this case is going free.

Here are the facts in the case:

Caruso's little boy had a sore throat—a very bad sore throat. Caruso tried his traditional remedy to tying a bit of colored flannel about the boy's neck, but it did no good. So, at the advice of neighbors, he called a doctor. Dr. Pendola responded.

Dr. Pendola at once discovered that the boy had a virulent case of diphtheria. He gave him an injection of diphtheria anti-toxin at once, then left to make other calls, promising to return as soon as possible.

It was too late. The boy died shortly after the doctor left. And when the doctor returned Caruso sprang upon him and choked him to death, crying that the doctor had, with his needle, killed the boy.

Technically, of course, Caruso is guilty of murder.

But Ignorance—black, untaught Ignorance—was the real criminal.

Caruso was in its grip. Mentally, he was in the middle ages. His ignorance caused Dr. Pendola's death, and will cause his own.

The electric chair will remove Caruso from the earthly scene; but the ignorance that moved him will not be affected. It still exists. It lurks in narrow city streets and in country towns, in tenements and on farms, more deadly than the plague.

The country faces no task more pressing than the task of enlightening the unfortunate Carusos who are its slaves.

FOR MORE TREES.

Charles Lathrop Pack, as president of the American Tree Association, has devoted most of his life to the cause of forest conservation.

This spring he has inaugurated a new campaign—"Grow trees for growing people." He points out that our population is increasing at a rate of a million a year, and that this means an ever-increasing drain on our ever-dwindling forests.

He urges that our idle land—there are more than 81,000,000 acres of it in America—be planted with young trees.

It is a worth-while suggestion. Unless we take the subject of forest conservation very seriously, our grandchildren won't have any forests to conserve.

HOW WARS ARE MADE.

The World War, which wracked Europe with four years of agony and sent millions of men to untimely graves, was prepared not only in the cabinets of elder statesmen, but also in the editorial offices of chauvinist sheets which delighted to stuff their readers with fake news.

You would think the recent world catastrophe would have taught Europe a lasting lesson. Not so.

The elder statesmen are once more at the job of elder-statesmaning. The rabid nationalists are once more at the job of frightening old ladies and stirring up the patriotic wrath of inflammable youth.

For instance: things are not as smooth as they might be in the relations between France and Italy. The two Latin sisters are getting into the frame of mind where they hate each other with true sisterliness. Their policies often clash.

And on top of this comes an Italian paper of wide circulation with a weird tale which is not designed to make Italians feel any kinder towards France.

According to this improbable story France has landed in the island of Corisca about 800 shock Senegalese troops. The officers are reputed to deliver daily lectures to the black soldiers, telling them all about Sardinians; how savage the latter are and how necessary it is to conquer that island, which is depicted to them as a land of milk and honey.

Of course, there is no truth in it. And, of course, the rulers of Italy know this to be so. But the fable is given wide circulation.

That's how future wars are made.

HARD TO SYMPATHIZE.

New York's new "clean stage" law, signed by Governor Smith, is about as stringent a bit of legislation as any state has passed in years.

It provides that any theater in which is shown a play or revue that is adjudged immoral may be padlocked for a solid year.

This seems a bit too steep. It is not hard to see where it might work real injustice.

But it is pretty hard to arouse much sympathy for the New York theater owners. For years they have been skating just as close to the line as they could. This new law is a result of their own sins. We ought to be sorry for them; but somehow we aren't.

Sir George Paish told the Bond Club of New York the world is facing a credit crisis. Won't they ever settle that old gag about who won the war?

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

The big giraffe then turned around and, with a thumping, thumping, sound ran just as fast as lightning, and was soon far out of sight. "He'll never come back to us," I fear," said Scouty. "But I'm glad we're here. I think when we have looked around we'll like this land all right."

The hand began to run and play. Some hills were not so far away, and clowny said, "Let's go and see what's on the other side. Perhaps we'll find a house, just right for us to sleep in over night. Remember that there's nothing gained if nothing's ever tried."

So off they went, at breakneck speed, with funny clowny in the lead. They ran past crazy looking trees that all grew upside-down. Said Copy, "Say, I think it's grand to be in such a crazy land. I only hope that we can find a really crazy town."

But, when they reached the old hill top, the bunch came to a sudden stop. "Oh, gee, there's nothing over there," said Copy with a frown.

"Just lots of rocks and things like that, so all our hopes have fallen flat. But, now that we have run up here, we might as well run down."

"Twas easy running down the hill, but even so they got their fill, and when they reached the bottom they were tired as they could be. Then Copy pointed just ahead, and in a happy voice, he said, "I'm going to see if that's a cave. Come on and follow me."

I was a big cave, sure enough, made out of rocks and brush and stuff. "Oh, goodness," whispered Copy, "what a dandy place to hide. Let's fix it up and take real pains. I'll keep us dry whenever it rains. And then he stopped real short and said, "Who's game to go inside?"

(The Tynmites meet a strange man in the next story.)

SAINT and SINNER

The next day, Tuesday, the eighth day of the trial of Cherry Lane Wiley for the murder of Ralph Cluny, her millionaire fiance, was given over to the examination of a small army of relatively unimportant but necessary witnesses. The Reverend Mr. Arthur Ashburn, rector of fashionable St. Peter's, at which the wedding was to have taken place, told his story of Faith's arrival, distracted, at the church, to break the news of Cherry's elopement. Chief of Police Morehouse, three detectives, and the coroner told their stories of the discovery and examination of the body of the murdered man, as well as their search of the house and grounds for clues.

Churchill, in cross examining Chief of Police Morehouse, succeeded in having the peculiar footprints, discovered by Bob Hathaway, and pointed out by him to the chief, introduced into the evidence.

"You have testified, Chief, that you and Mr. Hathaway were together in the bedroom in which the body of Mr. Cluny was discovered dead—you were there with him about eleven o'clock Thanksgiving night, you say?" Churchill asked.

"Yes," Morehouse answered.

"I will ask you if Mr. Hathaway, with your permission, raised the window which, according to his testimony, was closed when you and he together visited the death chamber, thought it had been open when he discovered the murdered body of his uncle?"

"He did. We both looked out of the window," Morehouse answered readily.

"And what did you see, Chief—that is, did you see anything in the nature of a clue to the murder mystery?" Churchill struggled with the phrasing of this vitally important question.

"I didn't see anything that I regarded as a clue," Morehouse answered a little belittlingly.

"Will you tell the jury just what you did see?" Churchill suggested sharply.

"We looked down, leaning out of the window, and just below, that is, about three or four feet below the window on the sloping terrace, were two sets of footprints in the snow. One set led toward the window, up the terrace, you know, and one set led toward the porte cochere, away from the window."

"Describe those footprints, Chief," Churchill demanded.

"Well, the right footprint was of the whole shoe, but the left one was of the toe half of the shoe only, the kind of footprint a man would make if he walked on tiptoe, with his heel

Sidelights on Higher Education

By David Kinley, President University of Illinois

(Some of these matters are still topics of keen discussion although it seems sometimes that in matters of education, particularly higher education, more time is spent on mere criticism, and less on constructive teaching and administration, than is profitable.)—David Kinley.

WHY PUBLIC EDUCATION IS EXPENSIVE

The opinion is frequently expressed that public education is growing too expensive, and that the state universities particularly are constantly asking for more money than is needed to carry on their work.

While I cannot present the statistics here, I believe that the facts do not sustain the view that the cost of the state universities has increased so rapidly. Rather, it is true that the expenditures have increased in proportion to the increase of attendance, new work imposed upon them, and the change in the value of money.

The public is constantly demanding that these institutions shall add new subjects of study. It is insisted that the educational program shall be broadened. It insists that the best possible faculty shall be employed in the erroneous belief that "if you get the right faculty you will have no difficulty with the students." Some people seem to think that it is possible to make up a large faculty, not only for one institution but for every institution, entirely of men and women of first class ability, character, inspirational power and intellectual leadership. They ask in effect that one hundred per cent of the teaching group shall be equal in ability, power and character to the first ten per cent. This is asking the impossible.

Moreover, it is founded on the false theory, dear to the hearts of many, that the best educational system is a Mark Hopkins "on one end of a log and a boy on the other." We cannot find a Mark Hopkins for every boy—and the public would not pay him if we could.

While insisting that the university shall do more and more, that it shall take care of the increased attendance, that it shall employ the best (and therefore the most expensive) faculty possible, some people demand no more money be given or spent, but rather less if possible. The demands are inconsistent.

NEW CURRENCY TO BE SMALLER; CUT IN COST ASSURED

But New Bills Will be Just as Elusive and as Easily Spent

Sometime within the coming year, when the storekeeper gives you your change, you may think he is handing you some trading coupons. But you will be mistaken. It will be some of Uncle Sam's new and improved paper money—narrower in width, shorter in length, and harder to counterfeit. The new bills will be easier to count and handle, and easier to spend. But they will be just as hard to get as ever. Still, there may even be improvement there. Times are getting better.

Ever since the first greenbacks were turned out during the Civil War, our paper money has virtually been 2.2 inches long and 3.04 inches wide. The new bill is to be 6 inches long and 2 1/2 inches wide. These are the dimensions of our Philippine money, which is harder to use and wears better than our larger bills. When the islands came under our control 25 years ago they needed American paper money. In 1902, Elihu Root, the McKinley's secretary of war, ordered that this Filipino money be issued in a different size than our own.

Will be Smaller
The new and smaller "greenbacks" will be greenbacks and will be harder to imitate. Counterfeiters can do many things with our yellow-backed bills. The new money will probably be printed in dull green and dull brown, colors that are the despair of the counterfeiters and his camera. Now there are five kinds of $10 bills. Hereafter there will be one. There will be one distinctive design for each denomination and no more historic portraits will be limited to the use of one for each kind of bill. At present the face of Washington is on both the $1 and the $10 bill, which makes it easier to raise the lower one.

These and other changes are expected to save your Uncle Sam about $4,000,000 a year. Printing dollar bills alone now costs him $5,000,000 a year. About 1,200 tons of highly expensive paper are used yearly in printing money. Every day 1-2 tons of old dollar bills are turned in for redemption at the Treasury. It is planned to drop the $2, $500, $10,000, $5,000 and $10,000 bills. Many persons have never seen a $1,000 bill, and it might prove difficult to get a $10,000 bill changed. So this will not be inconvenient. Furthermore, the smaller-sized bills will not have to be folded so much and won't wear out so fast. Besides there will be the saving in the number of designs. The 11 denominations now are in 39 different designs.

The new currency plan is virtually sure of adoption. After Treasurer Mellon orders the changes, nearly a year will be required for engraving the plates and for printing and distributing the new money.

230 DEATHS FROM TYPHOID IN ILL. DURING YEAR '26

State Health Department Reports on Deaths
from Disease

Springfield—Twenty out of forty-four cities of 10,000 or more people and twenty-seven out of one hundred and twenty counties in Illinois escaped last year without a single death from typhoid fever, according to statistics made public today by Dr. Isaac D. Rawlings, State health director. Furthermore, the entire State lost but 230 citizens to that infection. This figure establishes a new low record comparing eloquently with an annual average of 2,000 which prevailed twenty-five years ago.

The northern third of the land area of the State, where nearly five million people are concentrated, lost only 65 citizens to typhoid last year. That gave a rate of 1.3 deaths per 100,000 population for the section. In the central third there were 49 deaths among 1,200,000 people giving a rate of 3.3. The thirty-four most southern counties, commonly known as "Egypt," lost 116 inhabitants out of 1,024,000, this giving the southern third of the State a rate of 11.8, a figure three times worse than the central and eight times worse than the northern third.

"It is now largely an individual matter whether a person gets typhoid fever," declared Dr. Rawlings, in commenting on the statistics. "Vacation trips and touring take people away from the cities and homes where water and milk supplies are kept safe through official supervision."

"The city people are so accustomed to having their health protected by the health officer that they forget to use reasonable common sense in safeguarding their water and food supplies when away from home."

"Neither boiled water nor pasteurized milk ever carried typhoid fever to anyone. Persons who are vaccinated against typhoid fever never get the disease. People who practice a reasonably rigid personal hygiene and cleanliness never spread typhoid."

"The touring, vacation and typhoid fever seasons arrive simultaneously. With eight times more typhoid in the southern third than in the northern third of the State last year, it behooves the traveler to exercise considerable caution while in that territory."

"So far this year typhoid prevalence has been 20 per cent below that of last year, but the main season is still ahead. Whether a new low record will be made this year depends largely upon the people who move about from place to place. Last year there were 1,567 cases reported. That much typhoid cost the citizens close to $1,000,000."

Edison Leaves Winter Home, Hale and Hearty
Rort Myers, Fla.—Thomas A. Edison was on his way north today in ruddy health and buoyant spirits after a vacation of two months and a half. He expressed the opinion that "Al Smith will never make it" and dismissed evolution with a deprecatory gesture.

An Ex-Buck PRIVATE goes back to FRANCE

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the 26th chapter in the story of a former doughboy who is revisiting France as an advance guard of the "Second A. E. F."

CHAPTER XXVI

Verdun has always been a key city. Today it is the starting point of all tours into the Argonne. "English Is Spoke," rather comically, to be sure, but the essential words are easy to get—no matter what your essential words happen to be. Taxi drivers are almost as thick as red ants at a Sunday school picnic and they all know their "Champs de Batailles."

The French are erecting a new monument here in which they will place the bodies of seven unknown soldiers. There's a tragic thought in this—there's scarcely a hint to the number of unknown soldiers in France, no matter how many monuments they build.

Where French Held
Regardless of the urge one may feel to plunge into the Argonne where America's greatest battle was fought, Forts Douaumont and Vaux come first. Here's where the poilus made their stand and the Germans, although they tried doggedly for four years, were never able to pierce the defense.

Vaux is a wreck of masonry. Two soldiers, with little iron torches, act as guides. You may see, in the underground passages, where the defenders lived and where the carrier pigeons were kept. (One of these pigeons was wounded and was awarded the Croix de Guerre. When it died it was embalmed and placed in the Invalides, where Napoleon's bones rest.) The Germans took this fort once, when only fifty of seven hundred Frenchmen remained alive.

Dedicated in Fall
For miles around the hills are churned by shellfire. All the way over to Fort Douaumont. There a new "ossuaire" is under construction—where the remains of thousands of dead will be placed. It will be dedicated in September, when the American Legion sends its crusade of 3,000 veterans from the United States to the battlefields.

It stands near the "Trench of the Bayonets" in which several hundred bayonets were buried by a bomb. The bayonets, still held in the withered hands, protrude above the ground. There is no more fitting spot for a memorial.

Tomorrow—in the Argonne.

Pimples, Boils, Skin Eruptions

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils and other skin eruptions as being an indication of an abnormal condition of the system. This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S. You owe it to yourself to try S.S.S. It helps Nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished. It is time-tried and reliable.

"I suffered from impure blood—was weak, and I had lost so much weight, I didn't look natural. I had pimples and was also bothered with a breaking-out that itched terribly. I also had boils one after another."

I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to take S.S.S., which I did. This was some time ago. Now I feel well, and I am getting along fine. S.S.S. stopped the itching and it cured me of boils. I advise all weak and run-down people to give S.S.S. a trial. It clears up the skin and makes you strong and fits you with energy." Mrs. J. W. Barker, 1337 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

S.S.S. is made from the fresh roots of medicinal herbs and plants and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory. S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

SEEING is believing! We were undecided ourselves about what made good house paint until we saw the pigment test. Look at the black panel below! Note that of the six pigments used in house paint only white lead and white zinc—the pigments used in Devoe Lead and Zinc Paint—form opaque white films that completely cover and hide the surface. The others all form translucent films. That's why Devoe covers better, spreads farther, gives greater protection.

Dame Nature is surely giving the farmers a "tryout" this spring. Every thing seems against the farmer—he can get a living, such as it is, if he keeps hustling and vegetation does not drown out or freeze or perhaps dry out before the season is over, to say nothing about prices. No wonder there are so many unemployed farmers.

Hot Breads for breakfast in 10 minutes!

SINCE I have learned to make muffins, Johnny Cakes and other things the day before and reheat them quickly in the morning, we have hot breads all the time. And no one realizes that they are not baked fresh every morning.

I wet them (just a "dash" under the cold water faucet), heat them thoroughly in a covered pan, removing the cover a minute before serving to be sure they are dry.

DELICIOUS PASTRY, CAKES AND FRIED FOODS, TOO

Crisco is by no means limited to making hot breads. I find that I can always depend

Manhattan Muffins

When baked with Crisco, as light and dainty a muffin as you could imagine. For special occasions bake in tiny patty pans. Split each one, put in a piece of butter and serve at once. They make just one muffin.

1/4 cup Crisco
1/4 cup sugar
1 egg (beaten)
4 teaspoons baking powder

Cream Crisco, sugar and salt together. Add eggs, then milk. Last baking powder and flour sifted together three times. Beat until smooth, bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 25 minutes. If ordinary muffin tins are used, this recipe will make 12 to 15 muffins.

Johnny Cake

A real New England recipe. If Crisco is used, this Johnny Cake will be light, tender and delicious.

1/4 cup Crisco
1/4 cup sugar
1 egg (beaten)
4 teaspoons baking powder

Cream Crisco, sugar and salt together. Add eggs, then milk and soda beaten together. Last baking powder, flour and cornmeal sifted together three times. Beat until smooth and turn into Criscoed shallow pan. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 25 minutes.

Seen From Press Boxes in Major League Ball Parks

BY THE A. P.
A three cornered battle for the lead in one league and a duel for the top in another provided fans with plenty of drama.

The Cardinals held the National League lead, the Giants were second and the Athletics came within striking distance of them.

Batting power carried the Cardinals to an 8-3 victory over the Pirates although three Pittsburgh errors helped. Jess Haines chalked up his fifth win.

Throwing off the Brooklyn Indian sign in the ninth and extra tenth, the Giants took the upgrade again after dropping three straight games to the Robins.

The first was the winning inning for the Senators in their game with the Yanks. They pounded out even runs. After that they didn't score but the Yanks could make but four runs.

Rain interrupted the Athletics and the Red Sox in the third with the Mackmen leading 7-1.

The Cubs routed the Reds 13-9 with an eight run rally in the third and the White Sox walloped the Tigers 11-5.

Pitcher Connally came to the rescue again to spoil a Detroit rally which had threatened Blankenship in the seventh. Pothergill made three hits. It was the 16th consecutive game in which he had batted safely.

Another old favorite came to the fore in the Browns' 13-3 rout of the Indians as Sisler stole home in the fifth.

NOTES:
Bud Clancy, sub first baseman of the White Sox, is playing a whale of a game at bat game in the field. His hits totaled three, including a double. Frankie Frisch, former Giant infielder, batted out two triples and scored two runs.

All the Cardinals made safe hits against the Pirates yesterday, while all the Cubs who came to bat against the Reds turned in blows.

Tony Kauffman, Cubs right hander pitcher sent home from Cincinnati last week by Manager McCarthy, went to the hill against the Reds. He was hit freely, but managed to get along with his big lead until the ninth when he was yanked in favor of Charley Root with two men on base.

Derby Field Will Number Twenty-five, Indication
Louisville, Ky., May 5—(AP)—The probable derby field today, ten days before running of the 53rd Kentucky Derby, appears to exceed 25, an unusually large number.

Not all, however, will start in the race at Churchill Downs on May 14.

Five Million Dollars' Worth of Air Field

This airplane photograph shows progress on the new $5,000,000 Wright Field east of Dayton, O. When completed it will be the largest aviation center in the world, covering 5000 acres. The field is named in honor of Orville and Wilbur Wright, co-inventors of the airplane. It will displace McCook Field, Dayton, as the U. S. Army's most important post for aerial experimentation. The field will be a complete city within itself, with laboratories, administration buildings, tunnels for wind tests, warehouses, hangars, living quarters and water and sewage systems. To the right is the most recent photograph of Orville Wright, surviving member of the famous team of aviation pioneers.

THE INSIDE OF BASEBALL BY BILLY EVANS

1. Bateman swings at third strike. Ball touches person of batsman, gets away from catcher and rolls to the grandstand. What happens?

2. Can baserunners advance on such a play?

3. When does the infield fly rule apply?

4. When a fielder is making a play on a batted ball, who has the right of way, fielder or runner?

THIS TELLS IT
The batsman is automatically out on such a play, a third strike at which he swings, and misses, but which comes into contact with his person.

2. The ball becomes dead the moment it strikes the batsman and no bases can be run.

3. With less than two out and with first and second or first, second and third occupied.

4. Purely a matter of personal judgment. An infield fly is any fair fly ball which in the opinion of the umpire can be handled by an infielder.

5. The fielder always has the right of way, the baserunner must avoid collision or be called out for interference.

and it is probable some others will go to the post. The average field has been 15.

The east, with 15 candidates, leads the west with ten, the Preackness, at Fimble Monday, in which several of the eastern and a few western derby eligibles are entered, probably will serve to reduce the eastern contingent somewhat. The Derby trial of the Clark handicap at Churchill Downs will have a similar bearing on the western band.

SHELTONS GIVEN NEW TRIAL; MAY NEVER HAVE IT

Mail Robbery Case is Likely to be Dropped, Reported

Springfield, Ill., May 5.—(AP)—Doubt that Carl, Bernie and Earl Shelton, southern Illinois gangsters, will ever be tried again on the Collinsville mail robbery charge was expressed by the federal prosecutor here today.

Granted a new trial late last night, the three brothers will be released from Leavenworth prison on bail of about $70,000 each. It was indicated, and they will be brought back to Illinois for trial, not for mail robbery, but for counterfeiting. Their trial on that charge may be held at Danville, Edmund Burke attorney for the Sheltons, averred that the prosecution was without evidence against the brothers, inasmuch as Charles Birger, the opposition gang leader is in Benton jail on a murder charge and his two lieutenants, Harvey Dundy and Art Newman, have both turned against him. It was on Harvey Dundy's admittedly perjured testimony that the Sheltons were convicted.

Neither the prosecutor nor Federal Judge Fitzhugh said anything regarding disclosure yesterday that Birger and his men attended the trial of the Sheltons at Quincy heavily armed with machine guns and revolvers. They avoided the subject, Edmund Burke, however, challenged the prosecution to call Ned Dressendorfer, former chief deputy marshal and ask him of the charge. Burke's clients, he told the court, came to town well armed but left all their arms in his hotel room.

Women's Bill Raised Head in Senate

Springfield, Ill., May 4.—(AP)—Crushed yesterday in the House, the women's eight hour bill rose again today in the Senate when the bill of Senator Harry W. Starr, Chicago, was advanced to second reading without objection. The bill is essentially the same as that of Representative Lott Helman O'Neill which the House voted down by a small margin. After consideration of minor measures, all senate business was sidetracked for arguments in the bill revising distribution of the state common school fund. It was introduced by Senator Andrew S. Cuyler, Bunker Hill, providing, in effect, that distribution shall be based on school enrollment.

ARMY AERONAUT MADE ALTITUDE RECORD, BELIEF

Scott Field Balloonist
Ascended 40,000 Ft.
Wednesday

Scott Field, Belleville, Ill., May 5.—(AP)—America apparently had captured another air laurel through the ascension of Captain T. C. Gray, army aeronaut, yesterday to approximately 41,000 feet, nearly eight miles.

While the sealed altimeter remained to be calibrated at Washington, Captain Gray said he checked his instrument at 40,000 feet and found them accurate.

Starting at 1:33 p. m. Captain Gray piloted his balloon until a pain in his chest forced him to descend at Golden Gate at 4 p. m.

The previous record was less than 36,000 feet made by two German balloonists.

An enormous aviation suit enabled him to withstand the temperature of 60 degrees below zero, while an oxygen mixer, electrically heated provided oxygen. Medical officers said he had reached the limit of human endurance in rarified air. His only ill effects were a slight shock and circulatory change, they said.

Who Is Your Skinny Friend, Ethel?

Tell him that the quick easy way to put pounds of solid flesh on his bones is to take McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets.

Tell him its the modern way to take nasty tasting stomach upsetting cod liver oil—that these tablets are rich in vitamins and besides helping him to fill his flat chest and sunken cheeks and neck that the vitalizing vitamins in McCoy's will make him strong and vigorous and give him more ambition. Tell him that he can get 60 tablets for 60 cents at any drugist anywhere and that if he isn't delighted after a 30 day test he can have his money back. Be sure he demands McCoy's, the original and genuine. There are imitations just as there is counterfeit money.

Will Launch Boom for Sec. Emmerson

Pana, Ill., May 5.—(AP)—The boom for Secretary of State L. L. Emmerson for governor in 1928 will be formally launched at a dinner here after adjournment of the fifty-fifth general assembly, according to Pana partisans of Emmerson.

Friends of Emmerson here have formed a "Booster Club," of which H. W. Ferguson is chairman and that organization is arranging for the affair. Ferguson said 500 Republican leaders over the state would be invited.

The "Boosters" have been unusually active in advancing their candidate's cause. They have sent literature to hundreds of women voters in Christian county, and every piece of mail sent from Ferguson's office, he is an insurance broker, for the last three years has been rubber-stamped "L. L. Emmerson for Governor, 1928."

Through friendship that has existed between Emmerson and a number of Pana citizens for more than twenty years, the club came into being, Ferguson said.

What Every Girl Should Know

by GISA PRUCHONE

Copyright, 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"WHAT EVERY GIRL SHOULD KNOW," with Patsy Ruth Miller, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS
Mary "Elaine" Sullivan—slender, beautiful, red-headed—is a tennis champion. A poetical, spiritual girl is Mary, despite her physical prowess. Her mother died leaving for a living. Her spirit lives on in Mary. Wally Mason, a young reporter, loves Mary. But she disobeys in love. Mary keeps house for her brothers, David and Bobby. David, the family support, hopes Mary will get safely married. David is sentenced to prison for an auto fatality. The Charity Department takes Bobby. Wally proposes; Mary goes to New York, but cannot find work.

emptiness of the great barn-like place, that looked strangely lawdy in the mingled daylight and the pools of yellow shed from the bulbs overhead. The wooden tables were bare of any covering. Later Mary was to see them meticulously draped in the snowy folds of white linen, with the little pink lamps glowing gently above. But even now, in its undress, the place carried a fascination for her. Her breast rose with the thrill of it. It was better than instructress in the sporting goods department of a department store. That was routine. Here was life!

Then Mary suddenly found a job. It was that same day that Mary wrote her first letter to Robert, and to lighten the small heart, dwelt upon the munificence that would be theirs when she was installed as cloak-room girl at the "White Ape," the night-club that was New York's denier cri.
It was a very brave little letter. It spoke of the thrill and glory that was New York, and of the boundless opportunities that teemed on the very street corners. It was alive with hope for the future, and consoling in its acceptance of the present. It finished with love, and an urgent request for instant response. That same night Mary wrote to David, making no mention of the job but speaking brightly of the work she hoped to find as tennis instructress in one of the city's largest stores. That would cheer David up immensely. And a letter to Wally, that mentioned not very much at all, and was a very hazy web, leaving him to fill in the space between sentences. When that was done she prepared the one dress suitable for her job on the morrow. It was a very vague job. The most she understood was that

CHAPTER VIII
It was difficult, waiting for the night when she was to begin her duties. To start, to start! To begin earning. To feel the crispness of bills that she had earned herself, with no aid from anyone. To feel the independence of standing alone, and standing erect. That was what she longed for. Alone, free, dependent upon no one.
She went on duty at nine o'clock. "Not because there's anything doing, then, see," said Bennie, "but because some of the hayseeds think this is a circus and you gotta come early to get the best seats. Oh, you'll learn a lot, kid!" Mary wondered. Wondered if she would learn a lot, and the rapidity of her heart beats at the proximity of Bennie warned her that in all probability she would. Bennie, she now discovered, was part owner and manager of the place, and also did an occasional specialty when they were short of artists. She was to discover that everyone in the profession was termed an "artist," whether their specialty was artistic or not didn't matter. They were artists, and Mary was duly impressed. The artists were now sauntering in, slim girls with reddened mouths, mouths that spoke of wisdom, and eyes that were steeped in it. One, a vivid little dark creature, with great brown vivacity of explosives, strolled towards Mary, settled behind her cage. As she came, she smiled—a smile that was more a grin—a "Hello!" Then she announced, "You're new."

"I am," Mary smiled somewhat shyly in return. This was all so new, and these were her first words to a young one of her own sex since coming to the city.
"Think you're going to like it?" the other asked, leaning over the cage. What a delightful pixie face the child had, Mary thought.
"I think I will."
"You probably will. You're the type. And they'll probably like you." This was spoken with a wisdom that came oddly from the little creature. She swung her flat beaded bag, and turned to go. After taking a few slow steps, she turned back.
"What's your name?"
Mary was amused. She told the child her name.
"Mine is Barbara Clement." She hesitated, then said, "You can call me Babs if you'd like." But it very evidently was not what she wanted to say to Mary.
"Thank you. I should like to. And may I say that it suits you perfectly? You're a very little young thing."
"Not as young as I look," said the other succinctly. Then, "Listen, Mary. Don't let anybody around here like you too well—see?" After which she swung off with a careless swagger of her very seductive young person, the seductiveness an attribute of which she was very well aware.
"Now what," thought Mary, "can she have meant by that? Is it possible that she refers to the emaciated, pink-cheeked young man with the pipe-like ankles and paper-thin oxfords, known as Bennie? And if she means Bennie—why does she mean Bennie? And what can he possibly mean to me?" She concluded with the thought that it was all very puzzling, and not particularly interesting. In that it referred to Bennie. Had it been any one but him. But what did it matter?

At a few minutes before ten Mary received her first tip, and didn't know whether to laugh or cry. It was so ridiculous, being given a half dollar for nothing more than a smile, and it smiles were to bring in such high tariff, how long would it be before she could go for young Robert? Life was suddenly very good. It may have been the silver coin that she held tightly in her hand, it may have been the music that was tuning up with the arrival of the vanguard of guests. It may have been the soft glow of the lights that gleamed on spotless nappery and sent forth an air of well-being, of comfort, and even serene luxury in which it was pleasant to bathe, despite its synthetic glow. It may have been all of these, and it may have been none of them. But life was good—and why bother delving into the reason for its sudden worth?

GRAIN DEALERS ELECT
Peoria, Ill., May 4.—(AP)—Resolutions in favor of waterway projects, against extension of governmental activities into business and favoring a tariff upon black strap molasses were passed at the closing session of the Illinois Grain Dealers Association convention here today. All officers were re-elected. A tariff on black strap molasses is asked as a proposed stimulant for the greater use of corn.

THIS HAS HAPPENED. BILLY WELLS, NYDA LOMAX, and WINNIE SHELTON, employees of the big T. Q. Curtis department store, are taken into the home of their employer as his wards for one year, because he wants to help them further their ambitions. Billy, who wants to be a concert violinist, is the only one that is sincere. The other two live to enjoy T. Q.'s generosity.

The girls accidentally learn he intends adopting one of them when the year is up, and Winnie and Nyda turn the house into a place of intrigue.

Billy is unwillingly drawn into the contest. She is infatuated with DAL ROMANINE, nephew of MISS MEADOWS, the hostess. She fears Dal is "playing" both her and Winnie Shelton and her suspicions are heightened when the two are absent from the city during the same week-end.

In spite of this infatuation, Billy tenderly remembers CLAY CURTIS, son of her benefactor, who has disinherited himself and is now boarding with Mrs. Wells in a poor part of town, working in a factory by day and writing music at night. Billy neglects her music and finally brings on a breakdown. She and CLAY STAFFE BRADLEY, a charming first of the wealthy set, decide to go to Crescent Lake for a month. The mild climate is a relief to Billy from Dal. Begging her to meet him that night in the summer house. When she asks him if he has any interest in the gown shop where he induced her to make expensive purchases. With his usual disarming candor, he sets at rest her fears that he has made a profit on her. Billy returns to the house, she is amazed to see EDDIE HANNING, Nyda's schoolmate, coming out of Nyda's window and leaving by the fire escape.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XI

"WELL, what do you want?" Nyda demanded angrily, as Billy only stared at her, wide-eyed and frightened.

"I—let me come in, Nyda." Billy whispered, slipping into the room as she spoke. "Please close the door. Nyda, did I wake you up?"

But a glance at Nyda's right hand, which held a half-smoked cigarette, told her that that could not be the explanation of the strange sight she had witnessed. "I—I saw a man climbing out of your window—"

"That's a lie! Nyda's sullen, beautiful face was suddenly distorted with fury. 'I've been in my room for half an hour, and nobody's here! I see! You're trying to frame something on me, to queer me with T. Q.'"

"Nyda! I was frightened for you! I—I thought you might have been attacked—or robbed—I saw him; I tell you!"

"And pray tell me how you saw any such thing? Where were you, little angel? Poor little sick girl! Papa Curtis has to hold your hand and get doctors for you and send you flowers and give you expensive trips to Crescent Lake! Poor little sick baby! What were you doing out at midnight, so you could spy on me?"

One of Nyda's long arms shot out, her long fingers closed over Billy's throat.

"Let-me-go!" Billy gasped, under pressure of those murderous fingers.

"All right—but get out of here! Take your damned lies to Dal Romamine or T. Q. Curtis or anyone you please! And I'll have a sweet story to tell! Then we'll see what dear Daddy Curtis thinks of his little angel child! Get, I tell you!"

Billy did not wait to be told again. She ran to the door and tore it open. It was only by catching at the door jamb that she saved

"That's a lie! I've been in my room for half an hour."

herself from falling over a crouching figure.

"Mrs. Meadows!" she gasped, wondering if she had gone completely crazy.

"I—I thought I heard a noise—a burglar or something." Mrs. Meadows stammered, a dark flush staining her softly withered old face. "Is everything all right?"

"Of course!" Billy lied, doing her utmost to get control of her face and voice. "I've been out for a breath of fresh air. I—I couldn't sleep. Then I went to tell Nyda goodnight. I'm leaving tomorrow for Crescent Lake, you know. Good night, Mrs. Meadows. I suppose I'll see you before I go."

Without another glance at the trembling old woman who was trying pitifully to get back her dignity, and to pretend that she had not lied and spied, Billy ran to her own door, tumbling with shaking hands for the key.

When Viola brought her breakfast to her the next morning, the maid almost dropped the tray when she caught sight of Billy's face.

"Why, Miss Billy, you worse!" she ejaculated. "Who been smacking black under your pretty blue eyes? And your lips

PILE SUFFERERS

How Far Have You Gotten with Messy Ointments?

Don't be surprised that suppositories and salves haven't rid you of Piles. The most they can do is bring temporary relief. They never reach the cause—blood stagnation in the lower bowel.

Piles can be removed by an operation. Sure! But who wants to submit to the surgeon's knife when a harmless little tablet taken internally can banish the cause of Piles and bring real, lasting and honest-to-goodness relief?

Forget about an operation and stop using salves. Hem-Roid, the internal remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt, should quickly rid you of Piles the same as it is doing for thousands of others or costs nothing.

Get a package of Hem-Roid today at Rowland's Pharmacy or any drug-gist. It is absolutely harmless and if you aren't delighted with the results, you can have your money back—Adv.
